

Call for Participation

We invite you to join us in 14th International Conference on Information Technology in Education (ICITE 2026)

This conference brings together researchers, educators, technologists, and industry leaders to explore how emerging digital technologies are transforming teaching, learning, and educational systems worldwide. The conference provides a dynamic, interdisciplinary platform for sharing innovative practices, discussing cutting edge research, and advancing the effective integration of technology into education

ICITE 2026 invites authors to submit high quality original work including research studies, case analyses, technological developments, experimental results, and industry insights that demonstrate meaningful progress in the fields of educational technology, digital learning, and information systems in education. Submissions that introduce new perspectives, address emerging challenges, or propose forward looking solutions are especially encouraged.
